FRIDAY, DECEMBER 5. 1735.

N^o 137.

To the DAILY GAZETTEER.

As you intimated lately, that you did not propose to confine your Paper wholly to Politics, I design, now and then, to send you some poetical Pieces, if those that follow do but prove agreeable to your Readers.

I am

Your Humble Servant,

WM. PRYNN.

his MAJESTY, on his BIRTH-DAY.

THE rising Sun salutes the smiling Day,
And bids the rolling Years be bright and gay.

See the blest Progeny from Heav'n descends;

See the fair Youth, the Age of Iron ends.

When, beauteous Maid, returns again,

To usher in another golden Reign.

Godde's smiles upon a Brunswick's Throne;

Empire is the Image of her own.

! born to bless the World, and save Mankind;

! blest Employment of the noblest Mind.

! lend me his celestial Lyre,

And tune my Soul, and raise my Spirits higher,

To trace the Glories of your early Days,

While yet a Youth th' expecting Britons praise.

! and Oudenard shou'd bleed anew,

Letters from Dresden of the 25th and 28th ult. say, the Senators have assured the King of Poland, that they will not quit the City of Warsaw till the Dyet, which is broke up, be resumed, and the Tranquillity of the Kingdom intirely re-established. Count Poninski has acquired so much of the King's Esteem for his indefatigable Zeal at the Dyet, that he stands fair for some considerable Post. They are overjoy'd at Dresden for the Suspension of Arms concluded between the Emperor and France; the rather, because 'tis stipulated in the Preliminaries, that King Augustus shall be recognized lawful Possessor of the Throne of Poland, and that the same Form of Government will remain in the Kingdom, as in the Time of the late King Augustus II. by which Means they hope, that all Broils will cease, and Union and Tranquillity be quickly restored. In the mean time, such Preparations are making at Dresden, not only by sitting up the Electoral Palace, but the best Apartments of the neighbouring Houses, that 'tis presumed the King will come thither with a great Number of Polish Lords and Ladies in his Train. That his Majesty is actually making ready to set out thither from Warsaw, is very plain, by Advices from thence of the 15th, which say, that he declared from the Throne, to the Senators and the other Nobility, that having observed that his Paternal Councils, and the Representations made by him for the Publick Good, had been of no Avail, he thought himself obliged to lose no more Time, and to put off the Rest of the Deliberations to the Month of March next, when a new Dyet was to be called; and that he hoped, that during the little Time he stay'd in his Electorate, every Man would study to promote an Union, and that he could be sure Affairs would have a better Issue.

Some Advices from Germany of the 26th ult. say, that the Cardinal de Fleury has desired the Court of Vienna to let the Minister whom they shall send to the Court of France, pass through Strasburg, because his Eminency had a Mind to repair to that City, and speak with him before the Congress begins.

The Court of Parliament at Doway has just pass'd an Arret, to vindicate the Jesuits College from a Scandal it has lately lain under, upon account of a Scholar, who having secreted himself 13 Months, 'twas given out that he died of ill Usage from the Rector or Governor, and that he had been interred in the Jesuits Burying Ground; but the Truant being since return'd, the Arret that is now pass'd, is to expunge an Information made to the King's Attorney General against the said College by the Youth's Father, on the 15th of May 1734, and recorded in the said Officer's Register.

The Letters from Hamburg mention a scurvy Rencontre that happened lately in one of the narrow Streets of that City, between the Coaches of M. Pouffin the Envoy of France, and Madam de Statterheim, Wife of the King of Denmark's Resident: As soon as they met, M. Pouffin sent one of his Lackeys to bid her Coachman put back; to which the Lady made answer, That it was impossible, she being drove above half Way into the Street; but M. Pouffin not liking this Answer, his Footmen endeavoured to put the Coach back by Force, and broke the Pole, so that the Lady was obliged to alight and go into a House. The Coachmen and Footmen were every Minute ready to fight; but the Affair pass'd off without Bloodshed, tho' it caus'd a great Hubbub among the People, and the Minister was in no little Danger of being insulted.

The Paris Alamanac of December 10. has the following Articles.

Letters of the 17th ult. from the Army in Italy say, that after the Commissioners appointed by the Marshal de Noailles, and the Count de Kevenhuller, the General of the Imperial Troops that are assembled at Verona, agreed upon the Suspension of Arms, and upon what Quarters the Troops of each Nation should take for this Winter, the French repass'd the Po, and went to the very Quarters which the Spaniards had just before quitted, at Mirandola, Rovero, Guastalla, and in the Modenese; and the Imperialists went, some into the Ferrarese, some into the Mantuan, and the others remained on the Banks of the Adige. The Troops of the King of Sardinia possess the Lower Bresian and the Milanese; and 'twas said, when the Letters came away, that the first Column of the Spanish Troops was already arriv'd in the Dominions of the Great Duke of Tuscany.

Paris, Dec. 10. We have had a Report here of the Sickness and Death of the King of Spain; but it is intirely quash'd by the Arrival of a Courier in this City on the 5th, who brought Letters to Don Ferdinand Trevigno, and affirms, that on the 28th ult. in the Evening, as he came from the Biscorial, he met his Catholick Majesty in perfect Health, just return'd from Hunting.

The Preparations are begun for building the Great Porch of the Parish Church of St. Roch, to which, we are told, the King gives a considerable Sum.

The Duke de la Tremouille, and the Count d'Ayen, eldest Son of the Marshal de Noailles, are just return'd from the Army in Italy, the former being to enter at New Year's Day upon his Office of First Gentleman of the King's Bed-chamber, and the latter into his Post as Captain of the first Company of the Life Guards.

M. de la Pierre, formerly Captain Lieutenant in the Swiss Regiment of Diesbach, has obtain'd a Company vacant in that Regiment by the Death of M. Balafard, Captain of the Grenadiers.

We are assured, that the Abbes de la Farre and Fouquet, will be made Almoners to the King, in the room of the Sieurs de Brisac and Chabannes, who are promoted to the Bishopricks of Condom and Agen.

The Chancellor D'Agneffau's Son, who is a Captain Lieutenant in the Company of the Light Horse of Anjou, has obtained a Pension of 1000 Crowns from the King, who has also augmented those of Messieurs Sauveur and de Baige, Equerries of the Kings petty Stables, with 2000 Livres.

The Chancellor's Wife having, by her last Will, desired to be interred in the Church-yard of her own Parish of Autevil, without any Pomp; her Corpse was accordingly bury'd there on the 2d Instant, without any Ceremony; but her Funeral was attended by a great Number of the Priests of the Parishes of St. Roch and St. Eustache, for whom the Chancellor ordered a Dinner, and 6 Livres apiece.

The Cardinal de Fleury, and the Keeper of the Seals, having sent their Compliments to the Prince de la Torella, his Excellency, accompany'd by Don Ferdinand de Trevigo, went to Versailles on Tuesday Night last, to return their Compliments, and he set out again next Morning by 6 o'Clock for this City.

Yesterday Mr. John Blackall, an eminent Wholesale Grocer in Watling-street, was married to Miss Kirby, Daughter of Mr. Kirby, an eminent Merchant of this City, a young Gentlewoman of great Merit, and a very plentiful Fortune.

On Sunday last died at his House at Mortlack in Surry, Thomas Neale, Esq; a Gentleman of a good Estate, and in the Commission of the Peace.

Last Wednesday Night, between 10 and 11 o'Clock, a Gentlewoman was knocked down by a Footpad in the Haymarket, who took from her a short Cloak and her Head-cloaths; but the crying out, five or six Men came to her Assistance, took the Fellow in the Fact, and carried him before Justice Deveil, where he owned the Fact, and was committed to Newgate.

The Oratory Subjects on Sunday Morning next, will be a Proof, that Jesus is the Christ, the Majesty of the Gospel, or the Sublime of the New Testament, proper to Advent. In the Evening, an Oration on the Motto and Arms of Mordaunt, in Honour to the late Earl of Peterborough, and the Allies of that Noble Family. A publick Disputation on the Sense of the separate Soul. Any Gentleman or Clergyman is free to offer his Sentiments, or dispute.
